

Lee's Pharm Sponsored Symposium at the Sexual Medicine Course for Providers of Women's Health Care

The sexual medicine course for providers of women's health care organized by the Obstetrical and Gynaecological Society of Hong Kong (OGSHK), was successfully held both virtually and at Gleneagles Hospital on 22nd and 23rd May 2021. Together with the help from co-organizers, the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, The University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong Association of Sexuality Educators, Researchers & Therapists (HKASERT), and the Asia & Oceania Federation of Obstetrics & Gynaecology (AOFOG), the event gathered over 90 healthcare providers to foster the study of knowledge concerning women's sexual health.

To promote awareness of women's sexual health, and to provide O&G specialists, family medicine specialists, general practitioners, sex therapists, nurses and midwives, the basic knowledge on sexual medicine and an approach to the management of women's sexual health problems, Lee's Pharm as the gold sponsor in this event had invited Dr Irwin Goldstein from the U.S. to be the honourable speaker to talk about 'A New Alternative Besides Estrogen Therapy to Treat Vulvovaginal Atrophy'.

Dr Goldstein is the Director of San Diego Sexual Medicine, where he maintains his clinical practice, Director of Sexual Medicine at Alvarado Hospital and Clinical Professor of Surgery at the University of California at San Diego. Dr Goldstein has had a long career providing medical help to those with sexual problems, he is also the Editor-in-Chief of Sexual Medicine Reviews and founding editor of The Journal of Sexual Medicine. This hybrid symposium also provided a great opportunity for Hong Kong healthcare providers to understand how Intrarosa® could provide a new alternative treatment for postmenopausal women who suffered from vulvovaginal atrophy.
